FARMING AND FINANCES.

A PAPER READ BY W. MIDDLETON AT BRANDON FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

The following is a paper by Mr. W. Middleton, of Brandon, read at the Brandon Farmers' Institute on Feb. 1st:—

Mr. President and gentlemen,—Our subject today is a very extensive one, a retrospective and prospective view of farming and institute work in Manitoba. I will have to ask you to look back with me for at least sixteen years. At that time I started to farm in North Brandon. What progress has been made since that time? When I came to Winnipeg it was a small place, not the commercial centre of today; there was no Brandon, there were no farms farming up these lands around. Coming up to this country I shall never forget the hardships that we endured none but they who came into the country at that time will ever know. We "skipped on dirt and mire," displaying wind and rain and fire, but many times almost ready to give up when only making three miles a day, up to the knees in mud the one day, and the next to go to the neck in water. With blizzards and frosts some of our little band gave up in despair, but I said "Fear nae evil, w' Uquabie, we'll face the devil," and on we came.

Our first view of farming was at High Bluff, the farmers were busy teaming out manure and putting it upon the ice, so when the river broke up in the spring they had no more trouble with it, they did not need any for their land nor did they think they would ever want it. They do not put the manure on the river now, but upon their land. We came along to Portage la Prairie where there were many fine farms. We were told there was no good land further west, and that that part of country was not fit to live in. Nothing daunted on we came, and although we met many hundred people returning cursing the country and going back to Ontario. But I am glad to say that there are many of us today who are doing well. We got to Rapid City in sixteen days, that was a very fair average trip in those days. I started farming the year 1880. I had no crop that year, only a few vegetables we planted in a garden. We broke some of the prairie and put in some garden seed, but they did not come to anything. I had six acres broken and backset ready for 1881. We broke and backset at that time the same as we do at the present, we harrowed five times in 1882, put in thirty-five acres of wheat and had thirty-five bushels per acre, sold at $5. per bushel, oats, 35 bushels, fifty-five bushels per acre, half-acre potatoes and 175 bushels. Price of seed wheat $2 per bushel, and wheat to go forty miles for same, oats 150 bushels, $1, no barley to be had in those days. I could go on for hours telling of the many things that happened to us from that time up to the present; it is only to compare the things of those days with those of the present time that I have said anything of the past. We came to 1896 in crop went twenty-five bushels to the acre, price 35c. to 40c. per bushel, my state fifty bushels per acre, price 12c. to 15c. per bushel; potatoes, 30 bushels per acre, price 15c. to 20c., and so on.

SUCCESS ASSURED BY MIXED FARMING.

Now, Mr. President, we have advanced in everything but price, and we are told by the powers that be, that this state of affairs is caused by over production on the supply being greater than the demand, and that this being so, we must turn to something that will pay better, for if wheat still goes down in price we cannot expect to get anything for our labor. Some people tell us to go into dairying. Well in 1880 we got 10c. to 12c. per lb. for butter, in 1896 we got 10c. to 12c., now that is no better than wheat. Some people say try hogs, well they tell us that hogs will eat up our grain, and we can make 60 cents out of our grain. All humbug! Then they tell us to raise horses or the English market, some still go in for chickens, two or three ranches were started, and where are they today with eggs at 10 cents per dozen? No! my fellow farmers, do not go in for any one thing, but keep a little of everything that can be raised upon the farm and you will succeed. It is only by steady plodding that you can make any headway. If you keep to mixed farming, you are always safe. But I must hurry on, although we are farming better today than we did sixteen years ago, we have yet to improve in our farming, or we will get behind. I have from the first more I started put on my manure on the land, but my stock my wheat, since 1881, stacked my grain, because it is better for it to sit in the straw than in the bin. I could go on for hours from one thing to another about farming, but I must have done, and say a few words about our institute.

INSTITUTE WORK.

Well, Mr. President, we have not had as good attendance as we should have, because I hold that the institute is the place for every farmer to gather for knowledge or who would like to impart knowledge. We as an institute should take up anything that affects the farm or farmer, and not be bound to certain subjects as at first was intended, and which I think did a great deal of harm, however, we have of late taken a step in the right direction, and taken up things which are pressing heavily on farmers. There have been a great many fine papers read at our institute since we opened our doors, and also many good speeches given. We need not for all, only one or two of the most prominent resolutions which have been sent for approval to our Brandon institute. I refer to the Exemption act as one of the few. I feel this very much, because we should never have sanctioned this infamous act. What have other countries suffered by similar legislation?

A FINANCIAL REVIEW.

In the year 1688, the year of the Dutch invasion, the real cause of which was financial, the Prince of Orange had found that the resources of Holland were not considerable, were inadequate to sustain him in his intestine rivalry with the great sovereign of France. In an authentic conversation which has descended to us, held by William at the Hague with one of the principal abettors of the invasion, the prince did not disguise his motives. He said: "Nothing but such a constitution as you have in England can have the credit that is necessary to raise such sums as a great war." The prince came and used our constitution for his purpose. He introduced into England the system of Dutch finance, the principle of which was to make the industry in order to protect property, abstractedly. Nothing can be conceived more injurious. Its practice in England has been equally injurious. In Holland with a small population engaged in the same pursuits, in fact, a nation of bankers, the system was adapted to the circumstances which it had created it. All shared in the present spoil, and therefore, could endure the future burden. And so to this day Holland is sustained almost solely by the vast capital thus created, which still lingers among its diables. But applied to a country entirely different, with a considerable and rapidly increasing population, where was a numerous peasantry and a trading middle class struggling into existence, the system of Dutch finance pursued more or less for a century and a half had ended in the degradation of a debased and burdened multitude. Nor has the demoralizing consequences of the funding system on the more favored classes been less decided. It has made debt a national habit, it has made credit the ruling power, not the exceptional auxiliary of all transactions; it introduced a loss of interest, a conduct of both public and private life, a spirit of laziness and yet dastardly recklessness of consequences, and yet shrinking from responsibility, and in the end it has so overstimulated the energies of the population to maintain the material engagements of the state and of society at large, that the moral condition of the people has been entirely lost sight of. A mortgaged aristocracy, a gambling for-ign commerce, a home trade founded on a morbid competition, and a degraded people, these are great evils, but ought perhaps hereafter to be encountered for the greater blessings of civil and religious liberty.

SOMERSET.

This town on the N. P. R. R. is one of the greatest supply centres in the central portion of the province. All the food that cannot be less than from 2000 to 3000 cords of wood shipped from here annually to Brandon and other western points; and the supply is holding out. But it is not alone as a wood supply centre the place is known as a growing district and a growing district as well. Last year Mr. Trotter had some 200 cows tributary to his cheese factory which turned out a large product that really commanded a good figure in the best markets of the country. In wheat the present year the farmers are marketing about 150,000 bushels, all of a good sample as is to be found in the country. At the present, the buyers are J. Naismith of A. Turner of St. Boniface and R. Campbell of Martin, Mitchell & Co. It is understood both of these firms are to erect large elevators in the spring, which they need as that warehouses are now the only storing institutions of the place.

The country around is one of the oldest settled parts of the province, here having been large villages at St. Leon, 8 miles away, and St. Alphonse, 6 miles, all of French and French descendants. As a consequence a fairly old Somerset village are French though the population to the west is nearly exclusively English.

On account of the unsettled condition of the school question so far there is no school in the village, but one will be established as soon as the vexed question is brought to a close. The only institution in the literary line in the place is a neat little Episcopal church with a very fair congregation. Allaire & Co. are the oldest business firm of the place. They carry a large general stock, and are always up to the times. They keep the post office.

Leon Roy is the second general dealer, and he never spares efforts to please. Both merchants are also in the lumber business.

L. Morcau is a new comer in the hardware, tinware and general, of course, and a practical man. He is a practical man and always satisfies his customers. A. Breton sells general farming machinery, Fairchild's threshers, Singer sewing machines, Doherty organs, Hatching's harness, Portage Marble goods, &c., &c., and is always on the alert for business.

L. Cornelius is in the harness and saddlery business, does all kinds of repairing in his line, even boots and shoes as a matter of accommodation.

A. J. Girardin is the Massey-Harris agent, and is always a busy man, is a commissioner.

W. H. Smith is an old acquaintance, and a former resident of the Portage runs the hotel, and has a nice, quiet, clean place where travellers will always find themselves at home.

There are two blacksmiths and some other small industries in the place. The place is sure to prosper as the country around settles up. Like other points, it has its race horses. At the present Al. Garson has on a bet that his seven year old horse will travel 40 miles in three hours.

HILTON.

Or "town on the hill," is a pretty little village on the N. P. R. some 10 miles east of Wawanesa. It is essentially an agricultural town, as the wide areas of valuable land on every side show plainly there must be immense wealth in the wheat fields of this vicinity. But little was done in the way of agricultural expansion however until the past two or three years and this season the farmers are rewarded with a quarter of a million of crop—all handled through two elevators of 45,000 bushels capacity and three buyers, Messrs. C. Brown, Carroll and Davis the postmaster. They all pay the highest cent the market will stand, and Mr. Davis is said to be one of the best judges of wheat in the whole province. Mr. Brown has been four years in the place, and besides buying wheat deals in hardware, groceries, lumber, and is an insurance agent. A. S. Baker at one time of Oak Lake is in the general business here and purposes going extensively into it in the spring, when he will remove into a 22x40 premises, to be erected for him by Mr. McLennan the local carpenter. Geo. Agar, the livery man, always prides himself in having some of the best horses the country affords, so he is ever ready to give commercial men and others calling on him a fast drive across the country, which is a good thing of a cold day. Freeman and Orton are general blacksmiths and woodworkers—always good for whatever work in their lines may come their way. Mr. Robt. Barr, an old Brandonite, and brother to Wm. Barr, the first County Court Clerk of this city, keeps a comfortable boarding house, where guests are always properly cared for. Mr. Naismith is the school teacher, and the Baptists, Methodists and Presbyterians hold services in the school house. It is felt by the citizens, a harness maker, a baker and confectioner, a butcher, a shoe maker and a doctor could make a good living in the town. In a business way it has a circle of country that will average 8 or 9 miles to draw from, and a fine agricultural tract at that. It would pay intending settlers in the lines we have mentioned to take a look at Hilton before locating elsewhere.

FLEMING'S

PURE BLUESTONE.

21 TONS IN STOCK.

OVER FORTY THOUSAND POUNDS.

CERTIFICATE OF PURITY. Taking in as a standard of 100 ounces.

In 100 ounces there is:

Sulphate of copper - - - 99 1/2 ounces
Sulphate of iron only - - - 1/2 of an ounce
Other salts not at all injurious to wheat - 1/2 of an ounce

Making in all 100 ounces

As it is the sulphate of iron that is so injurious to wheat and as there is practically no Bluestone without a little iron, you will readily see that 1-6 of an ounce in a hundred is so near being none at all, that our Bluestone is as pure as possible. The above analysis is not our own, but if any person wants it we can show them the certificate for it. We might say to you that we had analysed it ourselves and found it pure, but that would be misleading you, as we have not nor has any person in Manitoba west of Winnipeg the proper appliances to test Bluestone or any other chemical compound and give it a proper quantitative analysis. We have sold the same make of Bluestone for the last three years and have yet to hear the first complaint as to the efficacy of it's work.

THE FACT IS IF YOU USE FLEMING'S BLUESTONE YOU HAVE NO SMUT.

We can supply you with any quantity.

HANDLING FURS.

Millan & Co., give the following instructions for handling furs: Fox, lynx, marten, mink, and skunk, must be kept in a cool, dry place, and not cut open. In skinning the mink and turn the skin inside out, leaving the pelt inside.

When put a thin board inside the natural shape of it, the skin to its fullest extent, stretch it across the board, stretching spreads the fur surface and makes it plump in richness. Re-stretch when partly dry. Never stretch furs or anything in the sun.

Furs must be "ressed," but with a chop of the tails. Skin and make mink square, rounded from the nose, rump, and tail. The nose, rump, and tail, have less value than the body. Mink must be kept in a cool, dry place, and not cut open.

Sealing tears the pelt of the fur. Bathe the skin in warm water, and dry it in a warm, dry place. It is not good to dry it in the sun, and makes them more dry and ruin on being dressed. When dry, where shady, "bathe" them. The meat of the fur is lost and "burns."

When furs are to be packed, and packed in the top fur or hair, use a dry kind of dry and packed. Do not stretch furs, and make it pointed. It is not good to stretch furs, and make it pointed. It is not good to stretch furs, and make it pointed.

The Live Stock Record, speaking of the sale of a lot of 63 head of cattle that weighed 8,375 pounds at $5.50, says that had they not been so heavy they would have sold for ten cents more per 100 pounds.

There is soon to be issued in New York City a monthly called the Agriculturist's Illustrated Magazine. The interest in agricultural literature is on the increase.
